Former Shark pursues rugby stateside

Pacific Daily News

Former Simon Sanchez High School Shark KK Kaminanga is bringing his rugby skills stateside.

The recent high school graduate and starter for the Sharks attends the American International College in Springfield, Massachusetts and will be a member of their men's Division 1 rugby program, according to a recent news release.

Kaminanga has played the positions of flyhalf, fullback and wing.

"My favorite thing about rugby is that it has taught me so much about life, responsibility and leadership," Kaminanga said in the release. "It helped me find who I am and it brought many wonderful people into my life. The sport has done so much for me, and I am trying to give back and make it a better place for everyone who plays. Shout out to my family, coaches and friends."

He's training with his new teammates and joins a growing group of Guam rugby athletes playing for the college. He's the sixth Simon Sanchez rugby player over the last two years to commit to a collegiate rugby program, while pursuing a higher education, according to the release.
