VI. Reports

a. Management Reports

I. Operational Update

General Manager Slike reported due to the inability of the PUC to meet with a quorum on 8/25/22 and due to the imminent expiration of the GGH contract, that AG's office will produce a document that would allow GSWA to proceed with the negotiated Layon Operator contract with GGH which will result in an estimated $500K in savings. The negotiated CPI increase will avoid projected inflationary scenarios in the future to maintain expenditures for the GGH contract for the next 3-4 years, with a total savings of about $6M.

Mr. Slike informed the Board that he had a call with GEPA and Chris Lund, and it was agreed that the increasing leachate year over year is a problem that needs to be investigated and the technical task group will be meeting regularly to identify the source and how to mitigate it. Mr. Slike also reported that EPA Administrator, Walter Leon Guerrero, was not satisfied with the permit that was adopted on January 16th because things have significantly changed from then and what is known right now. GSWA is still obligated to transfer $2M annually into the trust fund. The proposed schedule that the Receiver put forward has been put on hold. Mr. Slike reported that he will be receiving a report from the engineering company to justify a change in the rate that is being charged, with potential savings of $400K for the leachate treatment.

Mr. Slike also reported that GSWA reissued the invitation for bid for the diesel refuse trucks and that it is currently under protest. The AG's office is currently preparing a response. Previously, the district court ruled that it was within GSWA's authority to ask for safety considerations.

GSWA will also be issuing an invitation for bid for four large and three small electric refuse trucks. He also stated that he spoke with Director Birn regarding GSWA's fleet service repairs and maintenance, and discussed possibly using cooperative purchasing agencies which allows agencies to purchase specialized equipment without re-soliciting.

Mr. Slike reported that Pedro Leon Guerrero is on medical leave and Roman Perez will be acting GM and assisting with some of Mr. Leon Guerrero's customer service duties and other responsibilities. He also reported that GSWA had opened the Household Hazardous Waste procurement but are still evaluating the labor costs, so it is expected that it will come in lower than what is currently being paid to the contractor.

Mr. Slike reported on the Operating Budget and shared that expenditures for July and August will increase due to vehicle significant maintenance expenses. Fuel and supplies are also increasing. Mr. Slike also reported as far as operational expenses, commercial has dropped slightly and that the majority of the revenue shortfall is due to reduced sludge disposal since it is too wet to dispose of currently. Additionally, the new contract for bulky waste service is at a higher expense, but GSWA is servicing more bulky waste with improvement to the back log of appointments. Mr. Slike discussed that due to increased maintenance and repairs being required of many of the trucks in the fleet, double-shift in residential collection will likely increase to daily as well as curbside recycling being collected on Fridays. He reported that it will likely be two and a half years before new trucks arrive on Guam so GSWA will basically be operating with four trucks purchased in 2018 unless some salvaging can be done as well. Mr. Slike added that GSWA might benefit from putting out a bid for electric trucks, which might possibly be available sooner and that GSWA might be able to obtain EPA grants, but that remains to be seen.

Comptroller Kakigi informed the Board that as for the fund balance, the Ordot dump expenses are higher than what is being transferred, which is around $244K more in expenditures than what is transferred. The net change in the operational fund balance is at around $819K with $600K committed to reserves, for Layon and the equipment replacement fund. While the Ordot Post Closure Fund balance decreased by $244K. Comptroller Kakigi also reported the Balance Sheet; unrestricted cash had increased by 21% while restricted cash (Ordot Dump) decreased by 16%. Mr. Slike also shared that the Brown and Caldwell's Ordot operating agreement is due in 33 months and is hoping to re-negotiate a much more favorable arrangement. The other option is to re-negotiate GGH contract to operate and manage both Ordot and Layon landfills. Chairman Gayle also gave an update on the weekly meetings that are currently taking place regarding the increased leachate situation at Ordot. Comptroller Kakigi closed out the financial reports stating that numbers are stable and meeting targets.

b. Legal Counsel's Report

Attorney Miller reiterated that there is an ongoing truck protest and that the Attorney General's office is working on a response to the protestor and will go over it no later than early next week. She also reported that the renewal of the GGH contract is imminent and she is hoping to get back to the Board by the end of day. Lastly, Attorney Miller shared with the Board that the PUC has scheduled a hearing on the approval of the GGH contract for September 29, 2022.

c. Committee Reports

I. Zero Waste Bill update

No discussion

VII. Unfinished Business

a. Ordot Post Closure Plan Update

As mentioned under the Management Report, General Manager Slike informed the Board of his meeting with the technical task group consisting of GEPA and Chris Lund, and will be meeting regularly to identify the source of the increase in leachate and how to mitigate it. The proposed schedule that the Receiver put forward has been put on hold. Mr. Slike reported that he will be receiving a report from the engineering company to justify a change in the rate that is being charged, with potential savings of $400K for the leachate treatment.

b. Island Wide Trash Collection Initiative

Chairman Gayle reported that he spoke with Lt. Governor Josh Tenorio and was informed that they are working on the language regarding the lifeline aspect of the bill to determine the funding source which is an external funding source and not paid by the rate payers. He will get additional updates for the next board meeting.

c. Layon Cells 1 and 2 Closure

General Manager Slike reported that he had discussions with EA Engineering on doing the tier 2 gas testing which has been put on hold due to the weather. Mr. Slike also discussed obtaining a grant for the exposed cap, simple grading plan, anchor trench, and updating the storm water management. EA Engineering will provide a proposal in the next 3 weeks.

d. Rate Case with the Public Utilities Commission

Comptroller Kakigi reported that she met with PUC on August 2nd and she provided them with all the data. The PUC is now in the analysis and review stage, and should be providing a draft to GSWA beginning October. She also reported that the company GSWA is working with is Utility Financial Solutions who has extensive backgrounds in preparing rate modules, solid waste, and leachate; they are currently contracted with GPA.

VIII. New Business

Graham bill bans abortions nationwide after 15 weeks

By Amy B Wang and Caroline Kitchener
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Sen. Lindsey O. Graham (R-S.C.) on Tuesday introduced a bill that would ban abortions after 15 weeks of pregnancy nationwide, the most prominent effort by Republicans to restrict the procedure since the Supreme Court overturned Roe v. Wade in June.

"I think we should have a law at the federal level that would say, after 15 weeks, no abortion on demand except in cases of rape, incest or to save the life of the mother," Graham said at a news conference. "And that should be where America is at."

Graham's measure, which stands almost no chance of advancing while Democrats hold the majority in Congress, comes just weeks after he and most Republicans defended the Supreme Court's decision to overturn Roe by arguing that allowing states to decide on abortion rights would be the most "constitutionally sound" way of handling the issue.

On Tuesday, Graham vowed that if Republicans took back the House and the Senate in the midterm elections there would be a vote on his 15-week abortion bill.

"Abortion is a contentious issue," Graham said. "Abortion is not banned in America. It is left up to elected officials in America to define the issue ... States have the ability to do [so] at the state level, and we have the ability in Washington to speak on this issue if we choose. I have chosen to speak."

Graham was joined at the news conference by several antiabortion leaders, all women. Rep. Christopher H. Smith (R-N.J.) introduced a version of the bill in the House on Tuesday as well. Senior GOP aides in the House have indicated the bill would be a top priority for them if Republicans take back the majority.

The name of the bill - which includes the nonmedical phrase "late-term abortions" - drew sharp criticism from abortion rights activists. Used almost exclusively by antiabortion activists, the phrase is generally understood to refer to abortions between 21 and 24 weeks of pregnancy or later.

"15 weeks is not 'late term,' particularly given the significant challenges to access around the country," Christina Reynolds, vice president of communications at Emily's List, wrote in a tweet.

While most people undergo abortions earlier in pregnancy, 15-week and 20-week abortion bans disproportionately affect patients with fetal anomalies, which are often detected at a 20-week anatomy scan, along with those who take longer to realize they are pregnant. These kinds of bans will also affect more people in a post-Roe America as abortion clinics struggle to accommodate a swell of patients from states where abortion is now banned.

The White House criticized the bill, with press secretary Karine Jean-Pierre saying it is "wildly out of step with what Americans believe."

Other Democrats swiftly responded to reports of Graham's efforts with anger and vowed that the measure would go nowhere. House Speaker Nancy Pelosi (D-Calif.) called the bill the "latest, clearest signal of extreme MAGA Republicans' intent to criminalize women's health freedom in all 50 states and arrest doctors for providing basic care."

"Republicans are coming after your rights," Sen. Patty Murray (D-Wash.) said Tuesday. "We have already seen the devastation, the health-care crises, that these extreme abortion bans have caused: patients who are unable to get a prescription filled, doctors who are unsure if they can do their jobs - forced to wait until patients get sicker, until their lives are in danger, before they can take action. That's what we're seeing in Republican states right now. And it is a nightmare they now want to impose on every single corner of our country."

Sen. Catherine Cortez Masto (D-Nev.), who is locked in a tough reelection bid, said she would block any efforts in the Senate to advance a nationwide abortion ban.

"We don't need any more male politicians telling women what we can and can't do with our own bodies," she tweeted.

The timing of Graham's announcement is curious - two months before the midterm elections, after abortion has already shown to be a galvanizing issue for some Democratic voters. While Republicans generally have praised the ruling overturning Roe, many have preferred not to focus on the issue ahead of the midterms.

Biden says 'pandemic is over'; COVID deaths continue to rise

By Dan Diamond
The Washington Post

President Joe Biden declared the coronavirus pandemic "over," in apparently off-the-cuff remarks that reflect the growing sentiment that the threat of the virus has receded, even as hundreds of Americans continue to die of COVID each day.

"We still have a problem with COVID," Biden said on "60 Minutes," which aired Sunday night. "We're still doing a lot of work on it ... but the pandemic is over."

Biden made the remarks Wednesday during an interview at the auto show in Detroit, referencing the crowds at the event. The annual auto show had not been held since 2019.

"If you notice, no one's wearing masks," Biden said to CBS News reporter Scott Pelley. "Everybody seems to be in pretty good shape. And so I think it's changing. And I think this is a perfect example of it."

While Biden's comments were extemporaneous, they may complicate his administration's so far unsuccessful efforts to secure additional funding from Congress for more coronavirus vaccines and treatments and to take other steps intended to combat the virus.

Republicans on Sunday night raised questions about why the administration would renew its ongoing public health emergency if the pandemic is over. That emergency declaration, which is set to expire next month, has allowed federal officials to pursue flexible solutions amid the crisis, including rapidly authorizing new COVID treatments and keeping many Americans covered by Medicaid, the safety-net health program. The Urban Institute, a think tank that conducts economic and social policy research, has estimated that as many as 15.8 million Americans could lose Medicaid coverage after the government ends its emergency declaration.

Biden's comment that the pandemic is over came as a surprise to administration officials, according to two senior health officials who spoke on the condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to comment. The White House on Sunday night did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

The administration for months has maintained that the virus is on the retreat, citing the growing availability of vaccines, tests and treatments to fight it and the population's expanding immunity. Biden's remarks came at a moment when new daily infections are down to just over 57,000 - the lowest they have been since late April - although that is probably a dramatic undercount since most people test themselves at home and do not report their infections to local and state health officials.

Rising toll

Nevertheless, the disease continues to exact a toll, with more than 30,000 people hospitalized and more than 400 dying each day, according to seven-day averages compiled by The Washington Post.

"We have a virus out there that's still circulating, still killing hundreds of Americans every day," Ashish Jha, the White House coronavirus coordinator, said at a news briefing Sept. 6, warning that the emergence of new variants could pose additional risks. "I think we all as Americans have to pull together to try to protect Americans ... and do what we can to get our health-care system through what might be a difficult fall and winter ahead."

The head of the World Health Organization on Wednesday warned that the pandemic was not over and that important work remains to combat it around the world.

"We are not there yet, but the end is in sight," said Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, director general of the WHO. "We can see the finish line, but now is the worst time to stop running."

In the "60 Minutes" interview, Biden said the pandemic continues to exact a deep psychological toll.

"I think you'd agree that the impact on the psyche of the American people as a consequence of the pandemic is profound," the president said. "Think of how that has changed everything ... people's attitudes about themselves, their families, about the state of the nation, about the state of their communities."

Note: As of August 31, 2022, GWA biosolid billings showing a decrease by 54% compared to same period last fiscal year.

Billings includes HCF fees.

It was reported back on April 2022, stockpile of sludge in a temporary drying bed that will likely be disposed during this fiscal year and FY2023 estimated to be around $340,000.

Based on above trend, we should expect most of the stockpile of sludge will be recognized next fiscal year.

We are expecting an estimated decrease of sludge between 50% to 70% from the Northern District Plant.

Integrated Solid Waste Master Plan Update

September 21, 2022

Respecto'ng Magsaysay ti Sango'ng Magsaysay
Respecto'ng Magsaysay ti Sango'ng Magsaysay

Jacobs

Opening Remarks from the Governor

- “By statute, the Government of Guam is mandated to update the ISWMP every five years. ... This new effort to update the ISWMP will ensure that our administration’s vision of Zero Waste and sustainable materials is successfully implemented.”
 - Lou Leon Guerrero, Governor of Guam (April 8, 2022)

ISWMP = Integrated Solid Waste Management Plan

Stakeholders

- Stakeholders for Solid Waste Management
 - Guam EPA
 - Guam Solid Waste Authority
 - Guam Bureau of Statistics and Plans
 - Guam Department of Public Works
 - Port Authority of Guam
- Jacobs is contracted by Guam EPA

What is the ISWMP?

- Plan for managing of Guam's waste
 - Existing programs & infrastructure
 - Waste projections
 - Waste diversion goals
 - Recycling & markets
 - Special wastes
 - Public education
 - Administration

Solid Waste Flow in Guam

Landfill Diversion Goal

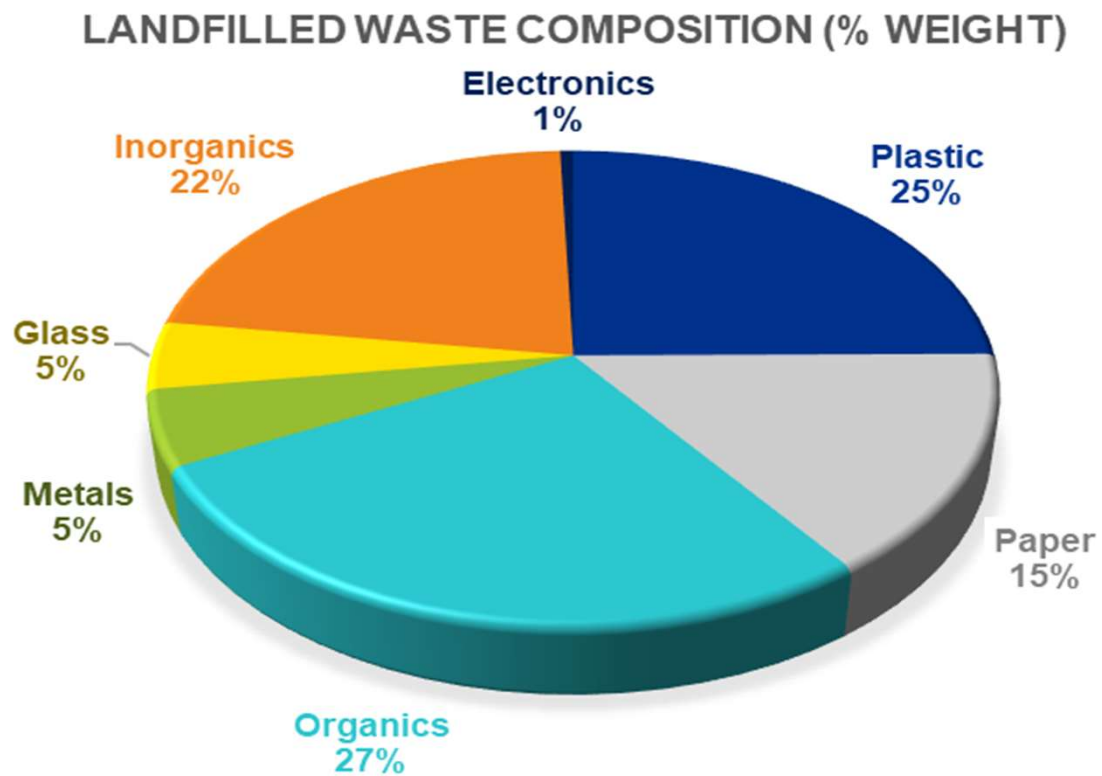

THE NEW NATIONAL RECYCLING GOAL

Increase the national recycling rate to 50% by 2030

GUAM'S RECYCLING RATE	2011	2012	2013	2014	2015	2016	2017	2018	2019	2020
	18%	29%	32%	33%	29%	32%	39%	37%	31%	26%

What types of waste are still going to landfill?

Opportunity #1 – Composting Organics

Composting

Increase landfill diversion by 19%

Composting

Opportunity #2 – Plastics and Packaging

Packaging

Increase landfill diversion via recycling by 20%

EPR for Packaging

HOW THE PROGRAM WORKS

Government requires producers to meet recycling targets

Companies form Producer Responsibility Organization and create plan

PRO collects fees on targeted packaging

Money used to fund recycling collection, processing, education and outreach

Opportunity #3 - Biosolids Diversion

- ~9,000 tons of biosolids landfilled each year
- Projected 14,200 tons per year by 2025
- Most communities do not landfill biosolids
- Concerns about perfluorinated compounds (PFAS)
- Awaiting study and regulations by US EPA (2024)

Removal of biosolids from landfill increases diversion by 7%

Summary of Possible Diversion

Diversion of Biosolids from Landfill	+7%	72%
EPR for Packaging	+20%	65%
Composting Program	+19%	45%
2020 Tons Diverted (Baseline)		26%

Plan is to choose several of these programs and target 50% diversion by 2030

Special Wastes

- There are some wastes that are best managed in landfill:
 - Non-friable asbestos
 - Non-hazardous treated wood
 - Non-hazardous contaminated soil
 - Stabilized Fats/Oils/Grease (FOG)
 - Emergency disposal of shredded tires

Administration - Management Questions

- Difficult questions to resolve:
 - Should GSWA be responsible for updating ISWMP since they must implement?
 - Who has the responsibility for outreach and education?
 - GSWA needs to run as a business. How do we encourage landfill diversion when this reduces their income?

Request for the Board

- Assign someone to be a point of contact
 - for resolving questions and aligning the ISWMP with GSWA plans/operations

Schedule and input for ISWMP Completion

- Review draft recommendations with Stakeholders November, 2022
 - Release formal review draft November, 2022
 - Stakeholder review complete January, 2023
 - Final document February, 2023
