Crusaders defeat Tritons in amateur baseball

Pacific Daily News

The University of Guam Tritons suffered an upset when the Crusaders defeated them in the Amateur Baseball League.

The Crusaders won against the Tritons 7-2 on Sunday at the Triple J Baseball Complex at Okkodo High School, according to a release from UOG's Triton Athletics.

It was a slow start for both teams as they were scoreless till the second inning. By the top of the third, the Crusaders struck for three runs behind the two-run single by the team's DC Nena. Nena was coming off starting Tritons' pitcher Kyle Martinez with third run coming on a passed ball, according to the release.

The Tritons finally scored in the bottom of the fourth after O'Neil Yobeck reached first on an error. He later stole second and had a single.

The Crusaders returned at the top of the fifth with a walk and two singles to score their fourth run off of Triton relief pitcher Rico Minor. The team continued to lead on top of the sixth with two hits, two walks, a hit batter and an error by the Tritons, according to the release.

The Tritons were able to score again by the bottom of the sixth, according to the release.

Kyle Martinez took the loss for UOG while Florincio Inuya got the win. Andrew Perez led the UOG offense with a double and an RBI. AJ Benavente had two hits for the Crusaders and scored two runs, according to the release.

The Tritons are set to return to face the Eagles at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Triple J Complex.

Nets condemn Irving social media post

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn guard Kyrie Irving said Saturday that he believes in all religions, two days after he appeared to show support to an antisemitic film.

The NBA, meanwhile, waded into the matter by condemning hate speech in a statement, but did not mention Irving by name or make any direct reference to his latest controversial storyline.

"I am an OMNIST and I meant no disrespect to anyone's religious beliefs," read a tweet posted to Irving's account. "The 'Anti-Semitic' label that is being pushed on me is not justified and does not reflect the reality or truth I live in everyday. I embrace and want to learn from all walks of life and religions."

Nets owner Joe Tsai said Friday he is disappointed that Irving appears to support a film "based on a book full of antisemitic disinformation." The Nets' star guard posted a link for the film "Hebrews to Negroes: Wake Up Black America" on Twitter on Thursday. The synopsis on Amazon said the film "uncovers the true identity of the Children of Israel."

Irving was playing in the Nets' game Saturday against Indiana.

"The organization has spoken to Kyrie about it," said Nets coach Steve Nash, who did not divulge specifics of what that meant.

Tsai and the Nets reacted quickly to the latest trouble stirred up by Irving, who had previously supported the idea of the Earth being flat and last month on social media shared an old clip from conspiracy theorist Alex Jones.

"I want to sit down and make sure he understands this is hurtful to all of us, and as a man of faith, it is wrong to promote hate based on race, ethnicity or religion," Tsai wrote on Twitter regarding Irving.

The NBA on Saturday said "hate speech of any kind is unacceptable."

"We believe we all have a role to play in ensuring such words or ideas, including antisemitic ones, are challenged and refuted and we will continue working with all members of the NBA community to ensure that everyone understands the impact of their words and actions," the league said.

It was not clear if that meant the league has spoken to Irving, or plans to speak to him on the matter.

Irving was unavailable for most of the Nets' home games last season because he refused to be vaccinated against COVID-19, as was mandated in New York City. The Nets then declined to give him a contract extension this summer, meaning Irving could be in his final season with the team.
