THE SCORE

Friars

celebrated quickly and went back to work.

Pangelinan said his squad bought into and executed, what he calls the long game. Rather than try to put away the game at every opportunity, Pangelinan convinced them that they were built to withstand a siege.

"Play long rallies. Understand that Wes is gonna get his kills. But we have to defend the rest. To try and outlast them," said Pangelinan. "Wes Keith ... man, that guy ... — he's a machine. So, we're kinda lucky that he's only front row for three rotations, right? And we take care of the rest. Play long rallies. Don't worry about the momentum shift. Just keep going, keep going."

In each of the three sets, setter Connor Balajadia found the wave and took his team for a ride. He had already established the middle with Joe Mafnas, who could whip the ball but didn't have to every time. Balajadia fed the ever-reliable Ethan Alvarez, who sat out some of the semifinal game. Balajadia welcomed outside hitter Gabriel Sarmiento back to beast mode, throwing him a couple of early sets to see if he had shaken off the funk that led to a sub-par performance last week, and time on the bench. It was tough to see the guy who cheers the loudest and longest on the bench, said Pangelinan, but everyone hits a slump sooner or later.

"He's our hype man. He's one of the guys who brings the energy. Even when he wasn't playing well, he was on the side, full of energy still. And everybody's entitled to have that one off-game. So he had it — lucky it wasn't in the final — and as soon as he got that first kill, we just let him go, let him do his thing."

Sarmiento admitted that his nerves took him out of his last game. On Saturday, he came to grips with them.

"I just had to breathe, and tell myself that everything will be OK," said the burly outside hitter. "And it was. It was OK."

Balajadia had distributed the ball masterfully, like a conductor, inviting his hitters to float in the air and finish the point. He worked Mafnas and Kiko Damian in the middle until the Eagles had to counter with two, sometimes three blockers. Harvest was up 19-17 in the third set as Keith made it rain. Then Balajadia turned the hype man into the hitman. Boom, boom, and Sarmiento got louder and even seemed to jump high-

A bad Harvest pass drifted too close to the net, and Sarmiento pounced on it, denting the floor to put FD up 22-20, but with that, the game was already over. A couple of errors later, the Friar fans rushed the floor, many of them holding up four fingers on each hand.

The long game worked. The siege was repelled. And within the Friar walls, celebration.

In the night's only other game, the Notre Dame Royals finished in third place with a 3-1 win over the Saint Paul Christian School Warriors.

Talo'fo'fo Elementary, Upi Elementary and Wettengel Elementary.

The matches were officiated by youth referees from the Triple J Auto Group Robbie Webber Youth League and school volunteers, according to the release.

The event also was held in partnership with the Guam Airport Police to provide bully prevention and character-building presentations at the chosen schools.

GFA then donated equipment, such as goals, soccer balls, sets of bibs, cones and markers, to all participating schools, according to the release.

"I've already been receiving calls from other schools about how to be part of the FIFA Football for Schools program," said GFA Football Events Director Sam San Gil. "We definitely want to include more schools into the program and to get more young athletes on the pitch to enjoy the sport. After today's event, I'm sure the kids are excited to continue playing."

San Gil also mentioned the upcoming events for the summer.

"We have more youth soccer activities lined up for this summer including the AFC Grassroots Football Day festival on May 21, and the start of the first-ever youth futsal tournament and league next month, leading into the next Triple J Auto Group Robbie Webber Youth Soccer League for the 2022 Fall season," San Gil said.

Ogura

"We will be searching for a new women's national team head coach while we work to rebuild ahead of the upcoming competitions."

Ogura was hired in mid-December. Her signing took many months to formally finalize, said GFA President Tino San Gil, according to Pacific Daily News files.

Ogura had said her immediate priorities would be to assess the team, study film and prepare the Masakáda for the East Asian Football Federation E-1 Football Championship 2022 Round 1. That round — and Guam's chance for competition — was canceled in April.

In January, Ogura held open house trials at the GFA National Training Center and followed that with a southern edition of the program in mid-April.

Ogura got to see Guam's national team in action in February, when the GFA hosted teams from the Northern Mariana Islands.

In training matches, the Guam women's team settled for a scoreless draw in the first match and in the second match lost 1-0.

Masakáda future

The GFA is looking to register the Masakáda to compete in the Women's Olympics 2024 Qualification Round 1 and to register the U20 and U17 women's teams for their respective Asian Football Confederation qualification tournaments in 2023.

The AFC U20 Women's Asian Cup Qualification Round 1 matches are scheduled to be played March 4-12, 2023, while the AFC U17 Women's Asian Cup Qualification Round 1 matches are scheduled to be played the following month, April 22-30. The Women's Olympics 2024 Qualification Round 1 is scheduled for April 3-11.
