Guam student represents island at 2025 Young People's Continental Congress in Philadelphia

Pacific Daily News

Kobe Miyashita, a student from Father Dueñas Memorial School, represented the island at the 2025 Young People's Continental Congress.

The application process for this national program required a team of one teacher and one 10th- or 11th-grade student to submit a joint application by Nov. 1, 2024. Applications included a teacher résumé, interest statements from both the teacher and student, an explanation for the student's selection, a teacher peer reference, and a parent/guardian permission form—all compiled into a single PDF. Accepted teams were notified by Dec. 9, 2024, and committed to an online civic education program from January to June 2025, followed by an in-person summit in Philadelphia.

The YPCC program officially began in January 2025 with virtual readings, discussions, and webinars that brought students together online to explore the founding era. It concluded with a week-long, in-person summit from July 14–18, where 27 students from across the United States and its territories gathered to connect, collaborate, and deepen their understanding of American history and civic life.

Throughout the program, Miyashita engaged in historical readings, online discussions, and virtual seminars that offered deep insight into key moments in U.S. history, such as the Boston Massacre, the American Revolutionary War, and the Civil War.

"The program has not only deepened my understanding of the founding of the country but also alas Philadelphia City Hall, Carpenters' Hall, Independence Hall, the Museum of the American Revolution, the Liberty Bell, the National Constitution Center, the National Liberty Museum, Independence National Historical Park, and the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

One of the most memorable experiences was participating in interviews with ABC News and other media outlets and handling original historical documents, including the first handwritten draft of Pennsylvania's Constitution of 1776.

"It made me want to share what I've learned with my classmates back home and helped me recognize the significance of the Declaration of Independence and its lasting impact on our nation," Miyashita said. "I now feel more confident using my voice to educate others about our history and encourage civic engagement."

He represented Guam alongside Brian Galang, a Father Dueñas Memorial School teacher of AP World History.

Reflecting on the experience, Galang shared, "The whole YPCC program was not only exciting but enriching. It has given me, us, a better perspective of our nation's founding, journey, and establishment. To a great extent, this will 'revolutionize' the way I will teach the history of our nation. As it takes a village to raise an individual, it takes a nation to raise great citizens."

Their participation was made possible thanks to the generous support of YPCC sponsors and supporters, who ensured that students from all backgrounds could take part in this transformative learning opportunity.

The Young People's Continental Congress is presented in partnership with Carpenters' Hall and is affiliated with National History Day.

Volleyball

a decade, Guam is heading into an unprecedented season where public and private school volleyball teams will finally face off once again, and the stakes have never been higher.

Public school powerhouses

The public schools are entering the season with momentum and serious firepower. Leading the charge are Simon Sanchez High School, George Washington High School, and John F. Kennedy High School, each bringing a mix of returning standouts and rising stars.

The Sanchez Sharks, the reigning ISA champions, are expected to have an exciting season with senior outside hitter Lyrwana Murgol, ISA MVP, sophomore libero Eden Caballero, and senior middle blocker Erin Clemena.

Despite losing setter Breanna Simina to GW, the Sharks remain a team to beat.

The Geckos are stacked with experience and fresh talent. They're led by senior outside hitter Savannah Dela Rosa, middle Zariah Besabe (a transfer from Notre Dame), and returning senior Mea Manipol. The addition of setter Simina leading their offense is for sure going to be a game changer for GW.

JFK's team brings in a wave of new talent but remains competitive. Led by Mylie Navarro, Amanda Lizama, and libero Aryani Magbanua, the Islanders may be younger this season but are quickly finding their rhythm and establishing themselves as a team that can't be overlooked.

Private school trailblazers

Private schools once again come in with depth, skill, and high expectations. Leading the pack are the Academy Cougars, Harvest Eagles and St. John's Knights.

Academy, last year's IIAAG champions, return with a strong core with senior outside hitter Landen Devera, alongside outside hitter Lea Aromin and right-side Megan Camacho. With firepower across the net, Academy is looking to win another title and set the tone early in the season.

Harvest brings back senior outside hitter Niesha "A.I." Chen, junior middle blocker Prudence Palisoc, outside hitter Juliet Ambrose, and setter Manea Camacho, with solid chemistry and competitive edge making them a good team to watch out for.

St. John's will rely on senior setter Jia Peters and middle blocker Amara Del Carmen to guide their offense and defense. With experience and chemistry on their side, the Knights are anticipated to do very well this season.

With the leagues finally reunited, the excitement surrounding this season is real. Fans can expect high-level competition, renewed rivalries, and tight matchups from start to finish.

The action kicks off Tuesday, and with that, island volleyball is officially back.

In the semifinals, Milan steamrolled Duenas while Espiritu toppled Blas, setting up a clash of the top seeds in the final. Milan then unleashed a strike storm, blasting a 256 game to Espiritu's 166 and clinching his first King of the Lanes title in dominant fashion.

13-year-old Prince of the Lane

In the Prince Division, 13-year-old Nathan Caasi delivered a performance worthy of royalty.

Trailing most of the match against second seed Logan Lapan, Caasi summoned a clutch turkey in the final frames, erasing Lapan's handicap edge and snatching victory by just four pins.

Earlier in the day, Caasi led the qualifying rounds by 11 pins over Lapan, with Michael Duenas, Gevon Fernandez, Xander Borja, Houston Martin, Naiyah Taimanglo, Christof Pineda, Leody Ersando, and Rafael De Guzman rounding

However, there is an intention to hold the conference before the end of 2025, with a tentative plan to schedule it in December pending successful approval of the bid. The EMS grant, which renewed on April 1, 2025, included requests from the Guam Fire Department and GMHA for medical equipment and supplies. While some items were procured during the last grant cycle, not all requests were fulfilled. Arrangements are being made to coordinate delivery of the procured equipment to the respective agencies. Ambulance inspections continue regularly, including recent inspections of three GMHA ambulances and others for non-emergency medical transport providers.
