

RuPaul queens coming to Guam

Legacy Group is hosting Guam's first international premier drag show, "Romeo to Juliet," on Feb. 21 at Hyatt Regency Guam, featuring RuPaul's Drag Race all-stars.

Aubry Duenas, Legacy Group chief executive officer, told the Pacific Daily News that the show is produced in partnership with Under the Wig, a production team based in Hawaii run by Travis Duenas, who was born and raised on Guam.

"It just felt natural to bring them to Guam," Aubry Duenas said. "The [queens] are all really excited to explore new cultures and new places. They travel all over the country performing, so them coming to Guam is exciting for them and is a bridge to the Asian market."

The show is sponsored by Crumb Artisan Bakery, Market Deli, Crowns Guam, Auto Spot, and more. A portion of all proceeds will go to local non-profit Victim Advocates Reaching Out, VARO.

The show will also feature Guam performers Angel Phoenix, Adrian Diaz, and local talk show hosts Tini and Wise.

"It is a variety show, so there is something for everyone," Aubry Duenas said. "We have live music and a DJ, and then the drag performance in itself always includes comedy, music, and fashion. We [also] have a contortionist coming from Vegas named Scarlett Business. I think she is going to wow the crowd [and] is very talented."

Travis Duenas added that Under the Wig is also bringing in some surprise queens from Hawaii to "balance global excellence with local authenticity," which he said is exactly what the company stands for.

"Hawaii has some of the most dynamic performers in the Pacific, and they deserve to be on the same stage as global icons," he said. "This isn't about importing talent. It's about showcasing what already exists here. That mix creates a richer experience for visitors and gives local artists real international visibility."

The show has three ticketing tiers: VVIP, VIP, and general admission. VVIP tickets cost $175 and come with dinner and table seating. VIP tickets are $125 and come with seating, a drink, and a snack ticket. General admission tickets are $75.

Nick Santos, Legacy Group's marketing and production manager, said there is a limited number of tables remaining, "and they are going fast."

Santos also said the show is an opportunity to "promote equality amongst everyone on our island."

"Guam is a very conservative and religious community in nature, and I think with the world changing around us, this is a great way for our community to acknowledge [and] embrace the changes that are happening in our world," Santos said. "We just want to stand for that and provide a platform for these performers to be able to do their thing."

Aubry Duenas said the show intends to uplift the LGBTQ+ community on Guam and show them that they have support and a safe space to perform.

"Drag does not teach anyone to change themselves. It doesn't try to change your values. It simply shows that creativity and self-expression are okay," Aubry Duenas said.

'First of its kind for Guam'

The drag show of this caliber is "the first of its kind for Guam," Aubry Duenas added, and is a means to reinforce Guam's role as a welcoming, diverse and dynamic tourist destination.

She said Guam's strong history of community, family, and respect is what it is known for, and the show aligns with these values by bringing people together.

"This is going to be something really new. We have a lot of experience in producing concerts, but this is something very new for Guam, and we are set to become the cornerstone in Guam's resurgence as a premier destination for world class events," she said.

Kimora Blac previously visited Guam in December 2025 to promote the show at Club Zoh and Icon in Tamuning, where she got to connect with the local drag scene and the House of Diosa.

She said her visit was "everything and more," feeling warmth, genuine connection, and real island hospi-talities from the moment she landed.

"The local community showed up with open arms, big energy, and so much pride," Kimora Blac said. "Interacting with fans, performers, and locals felt deeply personal. Guam really knows how to make you feel seen and celebrated."
