bring global travel opportunities closer to the local community.

Working closely with Micronesia Mall as a key community partner, Goodwind Travel said it supports initiatives that uplift Guam's athletes and residents.

Conveniently based at Micronesia Mall, Goodwind Travel continues to provide personalized service while helping connect the island to the world.

Community partnership, outreach

As part of this partnership, Iijima's community outreach efforts will be supported through programs and events hosted at Micronesia Mall throughout 2026 and beyond.

Planned activities include fitness-focused demonstrations and community engagement events.

Jeselyn "Gigi" Tan Yu, CEO/president of Goodwind Development Corp., parent company of Goodwind Travel and Micronesia Mall, said the mall has long been a gathering place for the Guam community, and in recent years has intentionally expanded that role by hosting more fitness and wellness events that bring people together in meaningful ways.

"Through the Goodwind group of companies, including Goodwind Travel and our partnership with Philippine Airlines, we are honored to support athletes like Manami Iijima while creating accessible spaces for community engagement and further inspiring our community, especially Guam's youth, by showing what is possible through dedication, perseverance, and a strong support system," Yu said in a statement.

Israel Fontanilla, operations manager of Goodwind Travel, said supporting athletes like Iijima is about "investing in people and their potential," which goes beyond transportation.

"We are proud to stand behind her journey and to continue strengthening our connection with the Guam community through meaningful partnerships," Fontanilla, said.

Throughout the 2026 season, Iijima will represent Philippine Airlines and Goodwind Travel across competitions, training engagements, and digital platforms, helping spotlight Guam as a place where wellness, ambition, and community support thrive.
